Mystic Pharmaceuticals to Present at the International Nasal and Buccal Drug Delivery Conference

AUSTIN, TX – 11 April 2012 – Mystic Pharmaceuticals, Inc. announced today that President and CEO Timothy Sullivan will present at the Nasal and Buccal Drug Delivery Conference in London on April 23 – 24, 2012. This annual conference brings together international experts and innovators to present and discuss the latest research, discovery and developments in nasal and buccal delivery of drugs and biologics. Leading researchers from academia and the pharma industry will present the latest advances in drug and vaccine development and delivery technologies.

Timothy Sullivan will present on the topic of “Novel Advances in Self Administered Intranasal Delivery For Drugs and Biologics” on April 24th. Mr. Sullivan’s presentation will provide a technical overview of Mystic’s VersiDoser® and VRx2™ Delivery Platforms and systemic nasal delivery systems for drugs and biologics. The presentation will also address rapid unit dose fill fit finish production and the mission critical role these technologies play in developing effective and comprehensive capability to protect large populations against the threats of infectious diseases, pandemics and bio-terrorism.

The conference is sponsored by the Management Forum (<http://www.management-forum.co.uk/>) and will be held at the Royal Automobile Club, St. James, London on April 23 – 24, 2012.
